Power's Out Practically Everywhere

Last night's and this morning's gale has brought down power lines all over with a resultant blacking out of: Carmel Highlands and the entire down coast area; Mission Fields, including River School, Carmel Point; parts of the Carmel residential district south of Ocean in the Monte Verde sector; north of Ocean in the Carmelo area and Pebble Beach.

The Carmel business district, and the north-east residential area still have power at noon. May it last two more hours so we can print your Pine Cone.

Briefs...

Assistant City Clerk Art Plaxton was beaming Tuesday. He'd completed his federal withholding tax summary of the city payroll.

"I think I'm the only person in the United States of America who reconciles his payroll at the end of November, but then, our payroll year runs from December 1 to November 30."

And what did the federal government take in income tax from the Carmel City employees this year? $23,521.18. Total payroll is $194,708.84.

"That's 12 percent," Art Plaxton observed, after a split second whirl with the electric calculator.

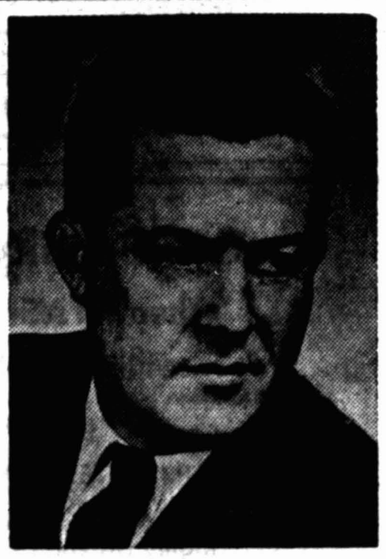
Arena Blanca Poets Announce Second High School Poetry Contest; 1960 Winners Published In This Issue

For the second year, a high school poetry contest will be co-sponsored by the Arena Blanca Chapter of Chaparral Poets and the Carmel Pine Cone. All high school students of the Monterey Peninsula are invited to compete. Four cash prizes will be awarded, and four honorable mentions. In addition, the eight winners will each receive a one-year junior membership in the California Federation of Chaparral Poets.



Novia Scotia, with James W. Metcalf as narrator, is the second in the current The World Around Us series presented by the Carmel Unified School District, to be held at Sunset Auditorium at 8:00 o'clock tonight.

This is a monumental color film portrait of Canada's Ocean Playground, the Sunrise Province. It is presented personally by James W. Metcalf against a background of skirling bagpipes and Highlands music—Cape Breton, the Cabot Trail, Acadian home of Evangeline, gathering of the clans, gem making, tuna fishing, tartans, fifty-foot tides, fisherfolk, cool, quiet countryside, bustling Sydney and Halifax.

Each student is entitled to submit one original, unpublished poem of no more than 24 lines, on any subject and in any verse form. Three typewritten copies, double-spaced, with name in the upper left-hand corner and school in the upper right, should be mailed to Mrs. Olivia Young, 517 Crocker Avenue, Pacific Grove, before the February 1, 1961, deadline. Carbon copies are not acceptable.

Awards will be made February 15 at the guest night meeting of Arena Blanca Poets. Winners will be notified prior to that date and invited to attend with parents and friends.

The 1960 prize-winning poems appear in this week's poetry column. One of the honorable mention winners, Dianne Kotowski's poem, went on to win fourth place in the 1960 state Federation contest. Poems which received honorable mention will be published in next week's Pine Cone.

Any further information and rules for the 1961 state contest, which closes April first, may be obtained by calling Mrs. Young: FR 5-1285.

Pat Chamberlain Joins Police Force

The police force was augmented today by a new six-foot-one, 230 pound patrolman named Pat Chamberlain.

Chamberlain, 21, is a native of Pacific Grove and a graduate of P.G. High School, and attended MPC. He and his wife and their child live at present in Pacific Grove, but plan to move eventually to Carmel.

The Carmel force currently stands at thirteen, including Chief Clyde Klaumann, one lieutenant, one sergeant, and ten patrolmen. Proposal to create another sergeant's rating, and advancement of Sgt. Bill Ellis to the lieutenancy soon to be vacated through retirement of Earll Wermuth, will probably be taken up by the council at its meeting next Wednesday. Under the proposed advancements, Patrolmen Del Wermuth and Bob Fisher would become sergeants.

Highlanders Have 2 Weeks To "Give" On Site-Size Or Lose Rhododendrons

County planning commission Tuesday granted conditional approval to a revised subdivision plan for 117 acres of Carmel Highlands submitted by surveyor George Bestor on behalf of Fresno land developer Anthony Allamprese.

On urgent request of William K. Stewart, Highlands Association president, the commission allowed two weeks' time for members of the Association to consult with the Bestor firm on possible modifications of the plan.

An earlier plan prepared by Bestor was shelved following protest of the Association to proposed variance from the Highlands' one acre minimum zoning. In addition to opposing any such rezoning, the Highlands favored reduction of road widths specified in the plan. Earlier, the Association had expressed hope that any decision on the subdivision might be withheld until completion of the county's hillside ordinance, as well as the coast highway master plan, both currently under study.

The revised subdivision map submitted Tuesday shows 86 lots on 117 acres, complying in full with county zoning and road requirements. The earlier plan called for 72 lots on 92.6 acres, including two large "greenbelts" in the Fern Canyon area.

Two areas previously designated "reserve" and not included in the development—the so-called Kent Manor estate, and much of the southwest slope of Mount Devon—are subdivided into building lots on the new map. Nine lots have been cut from the Kent Manor property, while the lower part of Fern Canyon, formerly "greenbelt," has four lots.

Also sacrificed under the new plan is a greenbelt at the steep upper reaches of Fern Canyon which protected a rare grove of wild rhododendrons. Conservation groups expressed particular concern for preservation of this area, which, under the current plan, would be subdivided into acre building sites.

Access to this area would be by way of a new extension of Corona Road into upper Fern Canyon.

HONOR ROLL ADDITIONS

Since the first quarter honor roll for Carmel High School was published in last issue of the Pine Cone, the roll has been checked and corrected. The following names should be added.

Suzanne Byrne, 11 points; Ellen Bories and Lee Otter, 7 points.

It is not the policy of the school authorities to release the honor roll until there has been time to check it, but we didn't want to wait a week. We were given it on the condition we would publish any additions or corrections in our next issue. This we are very glad to do.

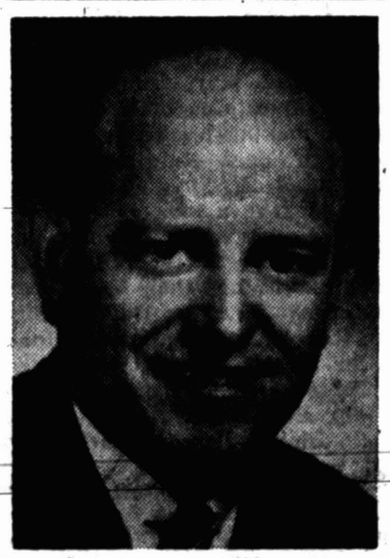
Area Planners OK Site Size Swap For Greenbelt

Last night, meeting in Carmel, the Monterey Peninsula Area Planning Commission recommended that the County Planning Commission "receive" a portion of the Laguna Seca master plan for 1300 homes and a shopping center, but not "accept" it until Monterey Peninsula planning has progressed sufficently so the commission can determine how well it fits into the general plan.



Designs for Survival with William Anderson as narrator is the second in the 1960-61 program of Audubon Wildlife Films in Color to be presented by the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society and the Carmel Unified School District. This screen tour will be shown at Sunset School, Tuesday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

William Anderson of Homestead, Florida, has produced a striking film which reveals the wisdom of Nature's intricate balance in equipping animals to cope with their particular environments in order to survive. Designs for feeding, movement, protection, and reproduction in nature are well illustrated in a beautiful film in natural color. This superbly photographed and entertainingly narrated film presents pathos and comedy blended in designs for survival.

Youth Center Has High Stepping Plans For Xmas Capers

Carmel Youth Center's twelfth annual salute to the community, the Christmas Capers, will take the stage at Sunset Auditorium on Thursday, December 22, and Friday, December 23, at 7:30 o'clock. And the whole town is invited to share in the fun, without spending penny one.

Twelfth edition of the Capers will boast 21 acts, some all new, some old favorites, and some featuring outside talent. Veronica Taylor, MPC freshman who is director and choreographer for the show, has lined up several of last year's hit performers for repeat appearances, among them little Colleen Cabral, acrobatic dancer, and six year old Rene Delois, piano prodigy who has appeared on the Lawrence Welk Show.

Miss Taylor will team with a bear in what promises to be a show-stopping dance number. Also

The portion the commissioners recommented for "reception" by the county planners is the western 300 acres which the owner intends to develop within the next five years. There appears to be no hurry about the rest, which is not to be developed for 15 or 20 years.

Two other recommendations: that greenbelts along the highway be a paramount concern in considering the subdivision; that slope, vegetation and specific site selection be considered in approving site size.

This last recommendation is, in effect, approval of the county planning commission's recent second look at one acre minimum site zoning. The county planners have indicated a desire to barter concession in site size in exchange for patches and swatches of greenbelt. In the 300 acres of the Laguna Seca western portion under consideration, the owner, under the acre minimum site zoning, is entitled to 300 single family homes. By allowing the owner to build on half acre sites on level land, there would be left 150 acres for undisturbed hills and canyons, and for greenbelts along the highway.

"The land owner is entitled to one dwelling per acre. This is the only way (by allowing smaller building sites and keeping the residue undeveloped) we can get greenbelt, unless we go out and buy it," Keith Evans, chairman of the Monterey Peninsula Area Planning Commission, and also a county planning commissioner, pointed out.

The recommendations grew out of a report by Gordon Hall, planning consultant for the Peninsula planners, and after over an hour's discussion, were approved with one "no" vote, that of Carmel's representative on the Peninsula commission, George Willox, who is also a member of the Carmel Planning Commission. Willox said he disapproved of making policy de-

PADRE CAGERS HOST LIVE OAK FRIDAY NIGHT

Carmel High's lightweight and varsity basketball squads jump right into league play without benefit of practice tilts this Friday night when the always-dangerous Live Oak Acorns invade the Padre pavilion for the league lid-lifter. With varsity football players making up the majority of the squad, the opener may turn into a rough affair as the athletes try to forget one sport in order to play the other.

Coach Dan Yurkovich's varsity squad has been practicing since November 14 and has one practice scrimmage with Monterey's Junipero Serra team as the only tightener for tomorow night's league clash. With Mike Draper and Chris Wilkin sidelined by aches and pains, Carmel's opening lineup will be graced by only one varsity letterman from last season. Big John Wilkin, a rugged rebounder and a defensive whiz, is a letter winner from last season and will serve as an engineer from the pivot position. Scott Forbes and Jim Brown, members of last season's fine junior-varsity team, will open at the forward spots with Bud Cunningham and Bob Little triggering the plays from the backline positions. Sturdy reserves ready for action are forwards Mike Dunham and Bob Blair; guards Frank Mayo, John O'Dello, Frank Bucher, Paul Rice, Nick Molitor, and Doyle Clayton; and center Greg Hulsey.

The visiting Acorns are well stocked with experienced personnel and the Morgan Hill lads would like nothing better than to knock off the defending champions in the first game of the season. The Padres have copped the B-league crown for the past two seasons and will be fair game for all the B-divisions schools throughout this season. League play has stepped up in class this season with the Gilroy Mustangs and Hollister Haybalers rejoining the fold after two years in the CCAL A-division.

Tomorrow night's preliminary tussle matches the lightweight teams in an even-up battle which defies prognostication. Both coaches are going with inexperienced teams in the league opener and anything can happen when the little fellows start firing in early season games. Coach Harold Lippstreau, making his debut as Carmel High's lightweight mentor, has three units of nearly equal ability and will take a look at all three teams Friday night. Opening the action for the Little Padres will be Rich Wise and Page Van Loben Sels, forwards; Jack DeWitt, center; with Gary Mumford and John Lefler at the guards. Also slated for action are Jose Fernandez, Ted Leidig, Bob Wells, Pete Conway, Bart Blout, Bob Moffatt, Bob Cater, Stan Cummings, Enborg Halle, and Steve Johnson.

PADRES IN PRACTICE TILTS SAT. P.M., TUES. AFTERNOON

Two high schools new to the Carmel High schedule will be seen in action at the Padre pavilion this Saturday night and next Tuesday afternoon when the basketball squads from Ceres and Buchser Highs provide the opposition for the Padre quintets. Ceres is billed for junior-varsity and varsity action against the local preps while the Buchser lightweight and varsity squads will test the Padre cagers.

Saturday night's Ceres-Carmel game is slated for a 7:00 o'clock tipoff between the jayvees with the varsity squads taking over at 8:20. This will be the first outing for Coach Dick Lawitzke's junior-varsity gang and the valley hoopsters should provide a good test for the Carmel jayvees. Although Coach Lawitzke hasn't seen his charges under fire, he indicates his starting lineup will emerge from Pete Morse, John Marshall, Barry Sherman, Jim Kelley, Rick Baldwin, Bob Palma, and Dave Harber.

Tuesday afternoon's lightweight game with Buchser is scheduled for 4:00 o'clock with varsity action unfolding at 5:15. Buchser is one of the larger schools in the San Jose area and should provide some topflight opposition for the ambitious Padre cagers.

LOBOS OPEN HOOP SEASON SATURDAY NIGHT

Evidently the Monterey Peninsula College athletic department doesn't hold any store in the old adage that lightning doesn't strike twice in the same place. During the football season, MPC scheduled the Sequoia Giants for its first game and was rudely upset by the big Visalia aggregation. In basketball, this Saturday night at the Monterey High gym, the Lobo hoopsters will entertain the Sequoia Giants in their initial action of the 1960-61 season.

Coach Larry Cummings, in his first year as cage mentor at MPC, will have a comparatively green squad into Saturday night's opener, but the former Gustine High coach has liked the looks of his squad workouts and figures they have a chance to upset the favored Giants. Two Carmel High grads, Bill Hicks and Russ Wise, are on the Lobo squad this season with Hicks being one of the few returning lettermen on this years' squad.

Blood Giving Dec. 2 To Commemorate Pearl Harbor Day

The blood giving to be held on Wednesday, December 7—Pearl Harbor Day—at the chapter house of the Carmel Red Cross will be held in memory of those who lost their lives at Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941, and in grateful thanks to those patriotic and unselfish citizens who thereafter contributed their blood so copiously and so willingly during the war, according to Edgar Bissantz, chapter chairman.

Carmel has not, of recent months, lived up to its high record of blood giving, Bissantz reports. These contributions are necessary to enable its residents, wherever they may be hospitalized, to receive life-giving blood and its derivitives. As of today, Carmel residents have used 103 pints more blood this year than has been collected here. So serious is the need for our community to meet its replacement obligations that, as reported in last week's Pine Cone, Mayor Frank Putnam has issued an official proclamation urging local citizens to register immediately for the December blood giving. "Authorities of the Red Cross are sure that once the urgency of the need is known, Carmel will meet the challenge and will increase its blood giving to meet its obligations," Bissantz concluded.

The Pearl Harbor Commemorative blood giving will be held at the Carmel chapter of the Red Cross on Wednesday, December 7, from 10:00 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Blood giving is easy, it doesn't hurt, and it takes less than an hour, including luncheon which is served by the Red Cross to donors, Bissantz assures new donors. Appointments are helpful but not necessary. They may be made through Tuesday, December 6, by telephoning MA 4-6921 or MA 4-6455.

The Barrows' Son Wed In Salem

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas N. Barrows, accompanied by their daughter, Nancy, returned Sunday from a particularly happy Thanksgiving holiday in Salem, Oregon, where on November 25 their son, David Stow Barrows, was married to the former Patricia Louise Gilmore.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. William Vernon Gilmore and the late Mr. Gilmore of Salem, and was educated at the University of Oregon and Northwestern University Medical School. She was given in marriage by her brother, Vernon G. Gilmore.

The groom's sister, Nancy Barrows of Carmel, was one of the bridesmaids for the Friday evening wedding, held at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Salem.

David attended high school in the East, and was graduated from Willamette University. He is currently a senior at the Willamette College of Law. He and his fiancee visited his parents here this Spring, and expect to return for an extended vacation next summer after he completes his bar examinations.

Among David's family living here are his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Snow, and an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Adams. He is also the nephew of former Carmelites Mr. and Mrs. Rollin Ford Allyne, who now make their home in Chicago.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Barrows are presently honeymooning on the Oregon coast, and will make their home at 275 Superior Street in Salem.

Application may be made and further information obtained at the college administration building, or by phoning the college at FR 5-9821.

Rotarians Hear About Parks

Milton Frinke, Park Superintendent at Point Lobos, discussed various state parks in the Monterey County area at yesterday's Rotary meeting at La Playa Hotel. In addition to such established parks as Point Lobos and Pfeiffer Big Sur and the Pinnacles, Mr. Frinke mentioned such state monuments as the historical buildings in Monterey, the town of San Juan Bautista, and such new and as yet undeveloped park sites as the mouth of the Salinas River.

Plans for the 1961 Rotary International convention next Spring in Tokyo were also discussed at the meeting. President-elect Rollo Payne and his wife plan to attend the convention along with some 15,000 Rotarians from every part of the world.

Nov. 30, 1960

Editor of The Pine Cone:

Lotta Crabtree was featured on the front page of last week's Pine Cone, and also telling of the editorial by William Overstreet urging the founding of a Carmel Art Association and a heated pool at the beach. The Art Association was a good idea, but fortunately for us, those who have wanted to keep Carmel as she is and not make her a mecca for tourists, the pool did not materialize.

Many times I have urged the building of a much needed auditorium housing an athletic club with indoor pool for year 'round use.

The fine new conductor, Ondrejka, of our Monterey County Symphony would be delighted to have a larger stage than Sunset for his growing orchestra.

When General McClure retired from the Army, he headed a committee which did $50,000 worth of volunteer work to form a report of 50 such combinations of auditorium and athletic clubs across the nation. That report may be seen by anyone at the city manager's office in the Monterey City Hall.

With so many millionaires living on the Peninsula or visiting here, there surely must be one who would want to send the committee the first million to start the ball rolling. Or there may be one who could underwrite the entire amount of estimated cost of six million.

The Peninsula is so crowded these days with visitors that our residents need such a retreat centrally located for Carmel, Monterey, Pacific Grove and Pebble Beach where they can meet for luncheon in one of several dining rooms at reasonable prices.

Mothers can then play bridge and await the arrival after school of their children for swimming lessons.

What a joy this would be for the residents of the Monterey Peninsula.

—Grace C. Howden.

Rollo H. Payne, President of the Community Chest this week praised the response of the Carmel residents.

Carmel has raised 94 percent of its $32,000, 1961 Community Chest quota and needs only $1,762.20 to go over the top. Carmel Valley is second with 92 percent of its quota and Carmel Highlands is third with 89 percent now collected and Pebble Beach has collected 80 percent of its $28,800 goal.

"We need $20,000 to meet our $160,000.00 Peninsula goal," said President Payne. "This is the minimum amount necessary to provide the essential services of the 20 Chest Agencies. We need only $20,000 more."

"Both Family Service and the Visiting Nurse Association have had to make substantial salary increases to hold their organizations together in the face of state and local hospital and institutional salary competition.

"If those who have not given will mail their donation to the Community Chest today, care of Postmaster, Monterey, it will help us over the top."

Indian "Bug" Drives Sophie Harpe To Honolulu, Red Cross

Sophie Harpe, in a letter to friends in Carmel this week, explains why she's in Honolulu instead of India, and promises to be back home in Carmel briefly in March, and in June to settle down for a while.

"I picked up a 'bug' in India, was in the thick of the cholera epidemic, and they had the hottest summer in years, according to old timers," she writes. "Too much stacked against me so even the doctor thought it better if I headed for home. So I did, at least as far as Honolulu.

"I'll probably be here until the first week in March. The Red Cross work I am doing is interesting and it is a type of service, after all. Quite rewarding. I like the personnel of this Hawaii Chapter very much. I am included in all their banquets, parties and extracuricular affairs and love it.

"When I get back it will be only to get my clothes ready for another trip. Three of us are driving to New Orleans, then through the deep south, to Washington, D.C. and New York; slowly through the New England states and lastly up into eastern Canada. Of course, I'll make a kodachrome slide record of what I see. Such fun. I'm a color slide addict."

She adds that she will be back in Carmel June 15. "It will be nice to be home again and be able to potter about my garden, now that I will have leisure."

Miss Harpe resigned from her position as head of the art department in the Monterey School system last year. At one time she was art instructor at Stanford. She founded the art department at Immaculate Heart College in Hollywood.

She attended Julian Academy and Beaux Arts in Paris, did graduate work at University of California at Los Angeles and got her master's at Stanford.

Special Bus Service To Symphony Concert At Opera House Weds.

Carmel symphony patrons will go over the hill to Monterey Wednesday night for the second appearance of the season by the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra in the Wharf Theatre and Opera House at 8:30 o'clock.

Art On The Peninsula

Latest addition to the Carmel art scene, the sculpture gallery Juniques, opened Sunday with a buffet and reception. Hostess for the occasion was Mrs. August Armanasco, who assisted gallery manager Ig Heniford and owner-artist Robert Han, whose work comprises the inaugural exhibit.

Mr. Han, an instructor in Korean at the Army Language School, goes by his professional name, Nong. He is a close friend and former student of Alexander Weygers, to whom he dedicates the current show.

The stone sculptures in the current Nong show are not for sale, being the copyrighted "masters" for a unique reproduction process by which replicas may be created in marble. Limited editions of each sculpture reproduction are available at the gallery, and will also be displayed in similar galleries in Dallas and Denver.

Juniques is open daily including Sunday from 10:00 to 5:30 o'clock. The gallery is situated at the rear of Pantiles Court, just south of the new postoffice entrance on Dolores Street.

Still another new gallery will open this weekend: The Courtyard, operated by Mrs. Marje Eliassen and located at 329 Pacific Street in Monterey.

The Courtyard's opening show will consist of sculptures by Lillian Greneker and paintings by John Damm.

Miss Greneker, who specializes in sculpture portraits, has a varied background which has ranged from building houses to designing special models for the "new look" of the late Christian Dior. She is proprietor of the Stable Gallery at 7th Avenue and 58th Street in New York City, which she founded in 1952. Among her work to be exhibited here are portraits of prominent theatrical personalities and socialites.

Canadian-born John Damm graduated from the University of Toronto and studied at the Russell School of Art and the Parson School of Design in New York. He is also a graduate and associate of the Royal College of Art in London. He served as head designer for Katzehbach and Warren in New York, and subsequently founded his own textile firm, later turning to the design of furniture.

Damm, whose work ranges from Byzantine-inspired canvasses of his earlier periods to his present abstract expressionism, has exhibited in the Bodley Gallery and the International Art Gallery in New York and at various galleries on the West Coast.

Mrs. Eliassen will christen her new gallery Sunday with a preview reception from 3:00 to 7:00 o'clock.

The Cannery Row Art Gallery at 196 David Avenue reopens tomorrow after several quiescent months with a show of paintings by Joan Savo and sculpture by Mary Angel.

The gallery, managed by Cliff Slater, will stay open regularly from 11:00 through 6:00 o'clock Sundays through Thursdays, 1:00 to 5:00 o'clock Fridays and Saturdays, and will be closed Mondays.

Joan Savo is well known on the Peninsula, where her oils, watercolors and collages have been widely exhibited. She recently completed a lengthy stay in the Bay Area, where her work appeared in several galleries. The new collection of oils to be hung at the Cannery Row Gallery tomorrow represents her first show since her return to the Peninsula.

Mary Angel is a Los Altos sculptor who works primarily in lightweight concrete formed over steel or brass frames. Her only previous exhibit on the Peninsula was a one-man show at the Cannery Row Gallery three years ago. She is currently represented in the Richmond Art Annual and the Oakland Art Annual, and her work has been shown in other galleries throughout the west.

Galerie de Tours, Lincoln and Ocean, is exhibiting the work of Philip Evergood this month. Other contemporary American and European artists on display include Nan Street Fowler, Emil Hugentobler, Jean Kalisch, William Ritschel, Joshua Meador, and Marlinde von Ruhs.

Born in his father's studio in New York in 1901, Philip Evergood was raised on painting and music. He was educated at Eton and Cambridge, but left the latter to pursue his art studies at the Slade School in London and at the Art Students League in New York City.

The announcement of the current show states, "Philip Evergood is acutely sensitive to experience and translates his awareness into images that embody the drama of man's relation to his fellow man. His art springs from passionate convictions, sweeping emotions and an innate sense of irony."

Mr. Evergood is a member of the American Artists Congress, the American Society of Painters, Sculptors and Gravers, Artists' Equity and the Artists League of America. His work is represented in the permanent collection of the Whitney Museum and has been shown in principal cities throughout the United States.

The December exhibition of the work of members of the Carmel Art Association will be hung Tuesday. Each artist may bring in one painting, either a water color or an oil. Work must be left at the gallery between 11:00 and 5:00 o'clock on Tuesday. Mr. Halloran will be at the gallery to receive the paintings.

Jesse Corsaut will be chairman of the hanging and arrangement, assisted by Jane Buffington, S. C. Yuan, Joe Ataide, Gus Velletri, and Jo Feuerborn. The exhibition will be open to the public through December beginning Wednesday, December 7 (11:00 to 5:00 daily). The gallery will be closed on Christmas Day.

A print Festival, comprising contemporary American etchings, lithographs, serigraphs and woodcuts, currently fills the Lawrence Drake Gallery at San Carlos and Eighth. The new show, launched Sunday with an invitational champagne preview, will remain on view through December 30.

Wilderness Of The West

A monthly column by
C. Edward Graves

22. A CHRISTMAS SUGGESTION

A frequently heard question at this time of year is: "What would be a good Christmas gift?" I have an answer to that question that would serve the cause of wilderness conservation and at the same time would provide the highest type of enjoyment for both giver and recipient of the gift.

Several years ago I participated in the development of a Sierra Club project that led eventually to an exhibit of a large number of the photographs by Ansel Adams, nationally known Sierra Club photographer, illustrating various phases of wilderness conservation. This exhibit was held first at the California Academy of Sciences in San Francisco, later at the LeConte Memorial Lodge in Yosemite Valley, and finally went the rounds of various museums and photographic salons in Europe.

The success of these exhibits inspired the Sierra Club to publish the material in book form under the title, This is the American Earth. A very poetic text was written for it by Nancy Newhall of New York's Museum of Modern Art. The volume is folio size, 14 inches by 10½. It has 89 pages and 82 photographs, all except a few by Ansel Adams. It was published early this year and has received more enthusiastic reviews from papers and magazines all over the country than any book of its kind ever published. Most of them could be called "rave" reviews.

Heartened by this success, the Sierra Club now has a somewhat similar volume in press, with publication date announced as December 1. Its title is Words of the Earth and the photographs are by Cedric Wright, another well-known Sierra Club photographer, though not with the national reputation of Ansel Adams. Mr. Wright's photographs have been featured for a good many years in Sierra Club publications. He died recently and his negatives have been donated to the Sierra Club. This could perhaps be called a memorial volume. I can personally recommend this book very highly.

Publications of this kind are naturally very costly and the Sierra Club has done well in keeping the price down to a level within the reach of those who want an especially distinguished Christmas gift. The price of the Ansel Adams book is $15, and that of the Cedric Wright book is $12.50. If you had been a member of the Sierra Club, you could have ordered each of them at a special pre-publication price. Incidentally, that is only one of the many advantages of Sierra Club membership.

There is space in this column for only one paragraph of quotations about the Ansel Adams book. This is from the Journal of the George Eastman House of Photography in Rochester, N.Y. and is therefore the opinion of one of the highest photographic authorities in the country. The editor wrote:

"The Sierra Club's prospectus of this book caused us to expect much and to hope for even more, so that the day on which the much anticipated volume arrived still remains as a stimulating memory. We have returned to this collection of pictures again and again. Each return has been like a first encounter and we feel the experience is far from exhausted. The book seems to rejuvenate itself, for the high and discriminating standards of those who composed it have given it a vitality peculiarly its own. It stands as an impressive reminder of what the photographic book should be and no doubt it will exert a beneficial influence on many publications to come."

Mayor Frank Putnam Cuts A Cake At Crocker-Anglo Bank

The Crocker-Anglo history has its origin in several private banking houses that flourished during the days of the Gold Rush but officially the Crocker-Anglo story begins on November 30, 1870, with the chartering of The First National Gold Bank of San Francisco.

In 1925, the First National, which had dropped the "Gold" from its name 41 years earlier, joined with the Crocker National Bank, founded as Crocker-Woolworth & Co. in 1883, to become Crocker First National Bank. Crocker-Woolworth was founded by Charles Crocker, one of the Big Four who figured in the building of the nation's first transcontinental railway, and who was the grandfather of W. W. Crocker, chairman of the board of today's Crocker-Anglo National Bank.

Early in 1873, another institution, The Anglo-California Bank, Ltd., an outgrowth of a mercantile business established in San Francisco in 1850, opened in San Francisco as the first step in the development of the Anglo California National Bank. Thirty-six years later, The Anglo-California Bank joined with The London Paris National to form The Anglo & London Paris National Bank, which in turn was consolidated with the Anglo-California Trust Company in 1932 to become The Anglo California National Bank.

The Crocker and Anglo banks consolidated in February, 1956, as the culmination of more than eighty years of banking for each of these pioneer institutions. This financial union created the fourth largest bank west of the Mississippi and, what is now, the seventeenth largest in point of deposits among the nation's more than 14,000 banks.

At the time of the consolidation of the Crocker and Anglo banks less than five years ago, Crocker-Anglo operated 50 offices. Currently the bank has 93 offices and plans additional units to meet the requirements of California's booming population and business activity.

Crocker-Anglo National Bank, whose roots are buried deep in history and development of California, celebrated its ninetieth birthday Wednesday.

In Carmel, there was cake-cutting in which Mayor Frank Putnam, Carmel Business Association President Bob Spencer, and bank officials, Arne Halle, Fred Godwin and Tom Work, Jr. participated.

CLOTHES, OFFICE SUPPLIES NEEDED FOR MEXICO SCHOOL

W. Smith Thomas, director of the Casa de Alfabetizacion (Literacy House) in Valle de Bravo, Mexico, is visiting here with Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Boyer and hopeful that Carmelites will continue the generous gifts of clothing donated to the Casa during his previous trips here.

The Boyers have volunteered their help to the Casa for the past three summers and in January will begin six months of intensive work there on its behalf. At present, they would welcome gifts of good used clothing, especially men's work clothes, women's skirts, blouses, and sweaters, as well as shoes of all kinds and children's clothing to send on to the Casa.

Mr. Thomas, who will be with the Boyers for the next ten days, has expressed the gratitude of both adult and young students at the Casa for the gifts already sent by Carmel residents.

The Casa prints its own reading material for new adult readers, and so would also welcome gifts of used office equipment and of paper and materials for mimeographing.

Anyone wishing to contribute to the program is asked to phone the Boyers, MA 4-3347.

Sgt. Hilterbrand

Our 90th Anniversary of outstanding service to Californians

A lot of candles, a lot of years, for Crocker-Anglo is California's oldest national bank. Our roots date back to the days of the Gold Rush when the early pioneers came by oxcart and prairie schooner to stake out futures in California – El Dorado of the West. As the westward migration grew, overland stagecoaches replaced carts and wagons and then made way for the first railroad. Today, California is even more El Dorado of the West—rich with golden opportunities for you, your family and your business. And on this, our 90th Anniversary as a national bank, we offer the strength and stability of our time-tested banking services to help Californians continue to grow and prosper.

America's first transcontinental railroad was completed on May 10, 1869, when a spike of California gold was driven home in the pioneer railroad town of Promontory, Utah. Charles Crocker, along with his associates Leland Stanford, C.P. Huntington and Mark Hopkins, founded and built the historic railroad. The following year, on November 30, the institution that is now Crocker-Anglo was chartered as a national bank – the first in California. Today, W. W. Crocker, Charles Crocker's grandson, serves as Chairman of the Board.

Professor F. Carlton Ball, head of the Ceramics Department at the University of Southern California, is exhibiting 30 pieces of his stoneware in a one-man show at the Doris Birkland Art Studio, 700 Cannery Row, in Monterey.

The title of his show is Nature Inspires Texture, a theme developed in 24" vases and 36" garden lanterns. Each of the wheel-thrown pieces in this show is inspired by some aspect of natural texture. With the simplest of tools, ranging from fence-stretchers, rolling pins and sanding discs to rubber castors and hand-carved bisque wheels he has demonstrated what an imaginative master craftsman can do to facilitate the texturing mechanics of decoration.

Receiving his M.A. degree in 1934 from the University of California where he did graduate work in fresco painting and tempera, Professor Ball was first introduced to ceramics in 1935. His first teaching position was at the California College of Arts and Crafts in Oakland. He initiated the course in Pottery-making at Mills College in 1939 and became one of the organizers of the Mills College Ceramic Guild and the San Francisco Potter's Association. After a year at the University of Wisconsin, he became head of the Ceramics Department at Southern Illinois University in 1951, returning to the West Coast in 1952 to join the faculty of U.S.C.

A tireless promoter of pottery as a living and vital craft, Prof. Ball takes part in 25 to 30 exhibitions every year, winning top awards nationally and internationally. Last year he won a first in the Third Miami National Exhibition. The year before he won at the Syracuse Ceramic International, and has been represented in the Syracuse consistently since 1943. The Metropolitan Museum, New York, has his pottery in its permanent collection. At present one of his ceramics is exhibited with the American Ceramic Society at the United Nations in Switzerland.

Professor Ball writes his regular monthly articles for Ceramics Monthly entitled "Strictly Stoneware", followed closely by ceramics here as well as in Europe.

Mr. Zeh was stricken at 7:53 Thursday evening and was rushed by the Carmel Red Cross ambulance to Peninsula Hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

In addition to his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Colton Zeh of Carmel, he leaves a daughter, Mrs. Joseph B. Holden of Florence, Oregon, and two grandchildren, Mary Kay and Christopher Holden, also of Florence, Oregon.

Requiem Mass was said Monday morning at Carmel Mission. Burial was in the Monterey Catholic Cemetery.

In addition to her husband, George L. Buguey, she leaves a daughter, Miss Alice E. Buguey, also of Carmel.

BEN SMALL AT TANTAMOUNT BRIGHTENED THANKSGIVING

A lagniappe of laughter was offered by the Tantamount Theatre over the Thanksgiving holiday with a three night, one-man stand by one of the Peninsula's most fully-dimensioned character actors, Ben Small.

An anthology of anecdotes, readings, verse and tall tales combined with a digest of several popular theatre and nightclub turns were worked by Mr. Small into a brisk and enjoyable entertainment which he called The U.S. Laughs.

None of the material was original and little of it new, but nearly all of it was funny. Mr. Small's relaxed and adroit presentation quickly warmed audiences who braved Carmel Valley's coldest, wettest nights of the year to see him.

Impersonations of impersonators are a bit discomfiting, but two of the high points of Mr. Small's repertoire were his interpretation of Mark Twain—for which he made a "grateful bow" in the program to Twain's celebrated impersonator, Hal Holbrook—and of the contemporary satirist Shelley Berman in the famous Berman-on-the-telephone bit.

Local sentiments were especially stirred by Small's fond and funny re-creation of the late, great Chic Sale as "The Specialist", presented by special consent of his widow, Mrs. Marie Sale of Carmel.

Choice bits from works of James Thurber and Robert Benchley, several Lincoln stories and an excerpt from The Education of Hyman Kaplan were also included in the mixed bag of humor which Mr. Small offered, all with deft characterization and unflagging pace. It's too bad the show was held to three performances; but the policy of the Tantamount seems to be one of underexposing rather than overextending its presentations.

At any rate, Mr. Small gave his audiences a happy time, and the Tantamount provided an elegant and intimate frame for his talents.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The completeness and supremacy of God will be underscored at Christian Science church services this Sunday.

Highlighting the Lesson-Sermon "God the Only Cause and Creator" is the Golden Text from Psalms (146:5, 6): "Happy is he that hath the God of Jacob for his help, whose hope is in the Lord his God: which made heaven, and earth, the sea, and all that therein is: which keepeth truth for ever."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy the following will be read: "All substance, intelligence, wisdom, being, immortality, cause, and effect belong to God" (275: 14-15).

Selections from the Bible will include: "Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honour and power: for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created" (Rev. 4:11).

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICE

The daily importance of gratitude to God was emphasized at the special Thanksgiving Day service held by First Church of Christ, Scientist, Carmel.

Featured in the service were expressions of gratitude by members of the congregation for the blessings which God's goodness had brought into their lives.

These voluntary testimonies included mention of healing of physical disorders of various types through the application of scientific prayer.

"Thanksgiving" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon for the day, which was composed of selections from the Bible and from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.

The same theme of gratitude was carried out in the musical selections which included the hymn "We Thank Thee and We Bless Thee" by John Randall Dunn.

My sight came to me quickly
And silently the haze lifted
From a world of darkness.
I saw the purple hue
Of a field of violets,
And I ran to listen —
I ran to see.
And under my feet the
Violets turned to grass —
Green grass — still wet from Morning's dew.
Then I stumbled and fell
And caught one last glimpse
Of a sweet, green world,
Before my sight left me.
And once again I feel my way
Down the sinuous path
Into my taciturn world
Of blindness.

FIRST PRIZE
Dagny Janss,
Santa Catalina School for Girls

A ROSE

A swirl of crimson, pale or gold,
Balancing deftly upon
A slim, green slip of stem,
The rose nods and lures
Bees to nest
Among her petals of quiet rest.

The rose stretches out, inviting loving touch
To her freshened petals, cool and clean.
She induces passers-by
To breathe a moment
The perfumed air
Surrounding her, as she stands serene and fair.

Stationed upon the rose's stem
Are stalwart soldiers, sharp and thin,
Pricked and ready
To guard their lovely treasure;
Let none divide
This delicate jewel from its stem of pride.

SECOND PRIZE
Diane Miller,
Carmel High School

THE MIRACLE OF SNOW

Whenever cold and bleak days follow fall
Brisk air exhilarates me with a glow
Of expectation; winds that send brave blows
Of challenge, raw, now conquer over all.
Gay robins fly south answering the call,
And autumn leaves drift wildly to and fro;
Anticipation fills each heart that's low,
While young, old, rich and poor hear winter call.
Then God is glory transforms all the land
From thirsty ground to velvet plains of white;
The sun comes bright and spreads its radiant glow,
Enhancing Nature's beauty new at hand,
And rare tranquility that all should know
Is captured in the miracle of snow.

THIRD PRIZE

King Of Hearts To Entertain At Circle Over Holiday Time

Witty enough for the most sophisticated adult, yet entertaining to children as well, King of Hearts has been scheduled by the Golden Bough Circle Theatre as a holiday show for the family. Written by Eleanor Brooke and Jean Kerr (author of Please Don't Eat the Daisies), King of Hearts was directed on Broadway by Mrs. Kerr's critic-husband, Walter Kerr of the New York Herald Tribune. A long run was assured by the play's never-ending sequence of funny lines and situations. With Donald Cook and Jackie Cooper in starring roles, it was a smash hit.

Its central character is the author of a daily cartoon strip about a little tow-headed boy and his dog. When the public finds meanings below the surface of his whimsical drawings, the cartoonist is quick to claim credit as an expert on child welfare, and even adopts a boy and a dog to prove his wisdom. As might be expected, boy and pet make hash of the self-styled expert's theories.

Bill Thompson, son of the Ralph Thompsons of Mesa Drive, will make his stage debut in the role of the 8 year-old whose natural instincts so frustrate his mentor. Chip Bates will be seen as his pal, somewhat more impressed by the cartoonist's fame. Holly, the shaggy English sheepdog owned by Dr. and Mrs. Talcott Bates, will also tread the boards for the first time when the comedy opens on December 9.

Set to play for two weekends in December, King of Hearts will suspend its run over Christmas week, and re-open on December 30 for five more weekends. Theatre parties will be especially welcome during the holiday season, and reservations should be made well in advance.

A Seminar Produces A Wedding

Participants in a seminar series entitled Eros and Civilization received an unexpected object lesson November 22, when the evening class at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Duskin in the Highlands turned out to be a wedding.

Mark Goldes, principal founder of Emerson College and one of the seminar leaders, enlisted the help of Duskin, an Emerson faculty colleague, and one of the seminar students, Edwin Roach of Fort Ord, in arranging the ceremony. At his request, the class was turned over to Mr. Roach, an ordained minister, who then proceeded to read the wedding service for Mr. Goldes and the former Shirley Cornelius Wilkins, a teacher in the Monterey schools.

The occasion came as a surprise to most of the class, though three others present had been let in on the wedding plans: the groom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Glasser of Monterey, and Mrs. Romayne Wetmore, who served as Shirley's matron of honor.

Following the ceremony, the Duskins called a few close friends of the bride and groom to join in an informal champagne party in their honor.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Wilkins of Bandon, Oregon. A graduate of Southern Oregon College, she taught at the Blossom Gulch School near Coos Bay before moving to the Peninsula. She has been a member of the faculty at Bayview School for the past two years.

Mark Goldes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Goldes of New York City, attended Brandeis University and was graduated from San Francisco State College. He served in the Air Force from 1954 to 1956, and moved permanently to Carmel Highlands following two years of graduate study at Brandeis. His deep interest in experimental teaching was reflected in an evening seminar series he conducted at Monterey Peninsula College, and culminated in his efforts which led to the founding of Emerson College, at which he now serves as a faculty fellow.

Following a brief honeymoon, the new Mr. and Mrs. Goldes are temporarily living in Pacific Grove, but plan to move permanently to the Highlands.

Leonard Fletcher of Carmel will show slides and discuss his experiences in Russia; Arthur Dahl of Pebble Beach will describe his trip to Palestine; and Council president Fletcher Dutton will comment on his travels through Africa.

Jim And Carol Hallett Visit

Mr. and Mrs. James Hallett (Carol Boyd) joined her parents, the Hal Boyds, for the Thanksgiving holidays. Jim and Carol, both Carmel High graduates, are now living near Sunnyvale, where he is employed as an entomologist by a chemicals firm, while Carol works as secretary to the assistant superintendent of schools in nearby Sunnyvale.

The Thanksgiving family get-together was completed via a long distance call to Carol's sister, Charlotte, and her husband Yates Hallam in Washington, D.C.

Sharing Thanksgiving dinner at the Boyds' Highlands home were their neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Allan.

Jim and Carol will be reunited with two other family members at Christmas, when they plan to rendezvous in Guadalajara, Merico, with Hal Boyd's sisters, Mrs. Virginia Doney of San Francisco and Mrs. Marguerite Tebow of Healdsburg.

Regatta-Winning Honeymoon

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Douglas Baird followed their Thanksgiving wedding by a honeymoon trip to San Pedro, where on Sunday their teamwork won them first place in the Cabrillo Beach Yacht Club Regatta.

It was an appropriate means of celebrating for Doug and his bride, the former Phyllis Marie Fraser, who has crewed for him in his Mercury, the Piper, on numerous occasions. This year's champion in the Pebble Beach Yacht Club, Doug last season sailed Piper to first overall in the International Mercury Championships.

The Piper was trailered to the entrance of the chapel at Church of the Wayfarer last Thursday, and following the wedding ceremony, Doug happily hoisted his bride over the gunwales to pose for some blithely unconventional wedding pictures.

Both Doug and his bride are graduates of Carmel High School. Phyllis, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Stanton Fraser of Carmel Valley, attended San Jose State and Monterey Peninsula College prior to her engagement to Doug, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob B. Baird of Carmel.

Dr. Fraser gave his daughter's hand in marriage at the 2:00 o'clock Thanksgiving Day ceremony, attended by friends and family of the young couple. Donna Lee Sands was maid of honor, while Michael Ordway Miller served as best man; both are former Carmel High classmates of Doug and Phyllis.

Among those present for the wedding were the groom's three brothers, Lance, Rocky and Chuck Baird (the latter with his fiancee, Marie Pfister), and Phyllis' brother, Rick Fraser, who came down from Humboldt State College. Another brother, Stuart, wired congratulations from New London, Connecticut, where he is serving with the Coast Guard.

The wedding reception took the form of Thanksgiving dinner at the home of the bride's parents.

The Bairds returned from their regatta-winning honeymoon on Monday, and have moved into their new apartment home on Ocean Avenue in Monterey. Doug is an associate in a Carmel blueprinting firm.

New Brownie Troops Formed

Four new second-grade Brownie Scout troops were formed here last month, and now boast a total of 64 youngsters from River, Woods and the Carmel Mission schools.

First troop to organize and hold investiture ceremonies was Troop 35, led by Mrs. David Hill and Mrs. Donald Campbell. The troop also elected the following girls as its first officers: Lyn Griffith, president; Cindy Hill, treasurer; and Sally Hudson and Kathleen McEldowney, scribes.

Troop 49 has as its leaders Mrs. H. Spencer Read and Mrs. Raymond Perez. Troop 84 is supervised by Mrs. Janet Handley and Mrs. George Porter. Troop 37 will be led by Mrs. Richard Masten and Mrs. John L. Olow. Troop officers will be announced shortly.

For their first project last month, the Brownies joined Intermediate Girl Scouts from Carmel in providing sixty dozen cookies to the Carmel Red Cross chapter house for delivery to convalescent patients at Fort Ord Hospital.

November Baby Roundup

Thanksgiving had a special aura of family celebration for several Carmel couples, who welcomed new babies during the month of November.

Douglas Owen Moody was the first new arrival of last month. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moody of Marguerita Way, baby Douglas was welcomed November 4 at Peninsula Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip DeWitt were joined on November 6 by a daughter, whom they have named Phyllis Sue.

As Irish as her name is Erin Christine Cassidy, the new daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Charles Cassidy, who made her debut at Monterey Hospital on November 8.

November 11 brought a baby girl to Mr. and Mrs. William McCormick, who have named their new daughter Elizabeth Jean.

The small population of Palo Colorado Canyon was increased by one on November 12, when Mr. and Mrs. Felix Palazzo welcomed a son, Mark Dana.

November 17 birthdays will be shared by a trio of youngsters who arrived within hours of one another at Peninsula Hospital. They are Laura Michele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Douglas of Carmel Highlands (and granddaughter of Mrs. Marion Douglas, also of the Highlands); Robert Paul, son of Captain and Mrs. Emile Fisher Jr.; and Deidre Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Zammit of Carmel Valley. Deidre Anne's mother is Rosamond Beck-Meyer Zammit, familiar to Carmel theatre-goers for her many stage appearances, latest of which was the lead in My Fair Lady at the Golden Bough Circle.

November 17 also featured the arrival at Monterey Hospital of James Dean Lacey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dean Lacey of Dolores Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Crasky Muskin, who make their home on Santa Fe Street, welcomed a new son on November 18 at Monterey Hospital. They've named the baby Thomas Russell.

Carmel Valley also had its share of newcomers last month. The Scarletts of Scarlett Road added a new member to the clan with the birth November 5 of a daughter, Cynthia Dee, to Mr. and Mrs. Guy Scarlett. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Patton of Village Drive welcomed a son, David Paul, on November 3. The boom in boys was continued November 7, when Mr. and Mrs. Charles Butler were joined by baby John Charles.

Carmel Teachers' Meeting

Over fifty Carmel teachers gathered at the Sunset cafeteria yesterday afternoon to hear a discussion by Dr. William K. Ramstad of team teaching and other new teaching methods.

Team teaching, which is already used to some extent in Carmel High math, biology, English and civics classes, is a relatively new technique involving the use of two or more teachers to a classroom and the pooling of resources for lectures, seminars and special studies.

Dr. Ramstad has the imposing title of Western Director, Commission on the Experimental Study of the Utilization of Staff in the Secondary School Principals, National Education Association.

Following the meeting, best attended of the year for the Association of Carmel Teachers, Dr. Ramstad met with members of the Citizens Education Committee under Dr. Richard Bell.

Constance O'Connor became the bride of Lieutenant (j.g.) David Miller Rudolph at a noon nuptial mass Saturday at Carmel Mission performed by an uncle of the groom, Father Rudolph of Alma College.

The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Vincent D. O'Connor of Carmel, Connie was attended by her sister, Mrs. E. G. Horsman of Hillsborough (Nathalie O'Connor) as matron of honor, and bridemaids, former Carmel High schoolmates Carla Budd and Wendy Draper and the groom's sister, Mary Ann Rudolph. Connie's classic gown of antiqued ivory silk with lace applique was offset by the short fitted frocks of emerald velvet worn by her attendants, who carried clusters of gardenias, and by the emerald-sashed taffeta frock worn by her flower girl, Susie O'Connor. Emerald was also the shade of the brocade suit worn by the bride's mother. Young Gary Horsman was ring-bearer.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Rudolph of Pacific Grove. Standing with him as best man was his brother, Louis Rudolph of Carmel; ushers were Vincent O'Connor Jr. of Westlake, the bride's brother, and Ted Macri, New York, John Collins and Howard Johnson, both of Los Angeles.

Following the reception held at the home of the bride's parents, the new Lt. and Mrs. O'Connor departed for the Hawaiian Islands and are presently honeymooning on Kauai before making their home in Honolulu, where the groom is stationed with the Navy.

Alice Williams Weds

Wearing the wedding gown in which her mother and grandmother before her were married, Alice ("Elsie") Williams, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Laidlaw Williams, last evening became the bride of Harvey Meyers of San Francisco at a charming ceremony in the Williams' Highlands home.

The small conservatory alcove at one end of the Williams' spacious living room was banked with flowers and greenery as backdrop for the 5:00 o'clock service, which was read by Dr. Karel Vit.

Elsie's attendants were Mrs. Ida Price of the Highlands and Mrs. Don Horowitz, who has been living with the Williams family while her husband is stationed at Fort Ord.

Standing with the groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Meyers of Philadelphia, was his elder brother, Richard Meyers of San Francisco.

Two young cousins of the bride's, Mollie and Janie Miller, served as flower girls, carrying small nosegays of mixed blooms. Their mother is Valentine Miller of the Highlands.

Several out-of-town visitors joined the group of family members and close friends who attended the ceremony. They included the bride's great-aunt, Mrs. Susan Porter of Big Sur, and an aunt, Mrs. William Henry Black, who came down from Sonoma with her daughter, Hilary. Also present was a close friend of the groom's, Roland Floyd, from San Francisco.

Only member of the bride's immediate family unable to participate in the festive occasion was her brother, Bosworth, who is studying at Harvard. He plans to be reunited with the family at Christmas.

Elsie represents the third generation to be married in the lovely gown originally worn by her maternal grandmother. Fashioned of yards of rich ivory satin, the gown is simply styled with an empire bodice and small puffed sleeves, the deep neckline set off by a bertha of hand-made lace. Shirring below the waist is released into full folds which fall into the sweeping skirt and a suggestion of a train. Elsie carried a nosegay of small flowers, and wore a wreath of the same flowers in her hair.

Her attendants were dressed alike in flower-print frocks and carried bouquets similar to that of the bride. The bride's mother wore a simple gown of deep green velvet, with a corsage of roses.

Following the ceremony, the wedding party enjoyed a sumptuous buffet supper, climaxed by the traditional champagne and wedding cake. Bottom layer, the "groom's cake", was a special dark applesauce cake prepared by Mrs. Horowitz; the upper layer, the white "bride's cake", was baked by Mrs. Williams.

Elsie was graduated from Carmel High School and attended L'Ecole d'humanite in Switzerland for a year before entering St. John's College in Maryland, where she met her future husband. Both hope to resume their studies at St. John's next year.

In the meantime, they will make their home in San Francisco, where Harvey has a position with the Post Office Department.

NEUMANN SEEKS REZONING OF RESIDENCE PROPERTY TO COMMERCIAL

Willard J. Neumann is seeking rezoning of his residence land, the triangle bound by Ocean, Mountain View and Torres, to commercial use so he can construct a two story apartment house.

At their meeting on November 24, the Carmel Planning Commission set up a zone of influence. Within this zone Neumann must have the signatures of owners of 50 percent of the land on a petition for a public hearing for re-classification.

The zone of influence lies between Mission and Santa Fe: Eighth and a line drawn half way through Fifth and Sixth.

Theresa Harper

Funeral services were held this afternoon for Mrs. Theresa Harper, who died Tuesday afternoon in a local rest home after a long period of ill health.

A native of Guelph, Ontario, Canada, Mrs. Harper had lived in Carmel for the past 18 years. She was the widow of Rice Harper, who died in 1933.

She is survived by a daughter, Miss Florence L. Harper of Carmel, and a son, William A. Harper of Redwood City, as well as a sister, Mrs. William Hielbein of New York City, and several nieces and nephews.

Dr. Bernard Lovgren conducted 3:00 o'clock private services today at the Little Chapel by the Sea. Friends wishing to make donations in memory of Mrs. Harper are asked to do so in the form of charitable contributions.

A RESTATEMENT OF POLICY

The new Carmel Plaza Pharmacy is now open, and in bidding for your patronage, I want everybody to know something of our business philosophy.

First, the Carmel Plaza Pharmacy is a privately owned and operated enterprise. Any franchised lines represented in our store, including Rexall, are there because we are convinced that they enable us to offer you more and better merchandise, and services, for your money.

We came to Carmel from a small town in the rural area of the State of Washington. We still own a drug and prescription pharmacy there which we are preparing to turn over gradually to our co-workers who have been faithful to us for many years. Mrs. Hulsey and I have established our home for our children here. I have been in the drug business for 28 years, the last 15 years as an individual owner and operator. In this time I have personally filled and complied with the Doctors' orders on over one million prescriptions. This is my life's work and I'm proud to be part of the nation's health team.

We pledge to offer the finest drug and prescription services possible.

We pledge to offer these services at reasonable, decent prices, and to offer our trade every advantage of quantity purchase or price revision at suppliers' level as soon as available to us.

Our success in the past is based on the fact that our customers are also our friends. We will strive toward that goal in Carmel.

Your satisfaction in our store carries my personal guarantee, and we will be there to see that this policy is carried out.

Our new store will be open Friday evenings starting Dec. 2. Starting December 16, every night until Christmas.

We extend a most cordial invitation to meet us personally.

ject, problems of city government, of which any Carmel mayor is especially qualified to speak with authority. City Clerk Larry Rose shared the programs with the mayor, which were conducted in the discussion format.

Metropolitan Opera broadcasts start Saturday morning, 11:00 o'clock, our time, with Nabucco, early Verdi, which nobody has heard except the enthusiastis who may have acquired the Cetra album, for a long time unavailable but obtainable now through record importing houses. Of course, the lucky dogs who go off to browse around Europe in the winter may have heard it sung there.

Cornell MacNeil, who was the mainstay of several San Francisco seasons of the now defunct and deeply mourned Cosmopolitan opera company, will sing the title role.

Leonie Rysanek, who sang Callas' Lady Macbeth splendidly the season Callas failed to keep her San Francisco Opera commitments, sings Abigaille.

We've already dug out our sign which we hang on the front door winter and spring Saturdays:

Please Do Not Disturb During Opera Broadcast.

The federal government (department of interior) has apportioned $21,425,402 to the various states for their fish and game restoration programs for the year ending June 30, 1961. Spelled out, it's 21 million, etc. Now don't get excited.

The money is derived from federal excise taxes collected from the manufacturers, an 11 percent tax on sporting guns and ammunition, which is used for game restoration, and 10 percent tax on fishing rods, reels, creels and artificial lures and flies, used for fish restoration. Both taxes apply on the manufacturer's price.

So the man who shoots the gun or casts the line pays. Would that all taxes were so equitably arranged!

The formula by which the Federal Fish and Wildlife Service distributes the money among the states is based on number of hunting and fishing licenses issued there in reference to area, and it is too complicated to go into here; besides, we haven't got around to understanding it. But California is doing all right. She gets more than anybody except Alaska and Texas: $272,750 for fish; $650,076 for wildlife. Alaska and Texas get the same allocation for fish as California, and a little more for wildlife, $735,100. Michigan and Minnesota are also in the $200,000 bracket for fish, but in the 400,000 and 3,000,000 area for wildlife. Everybody else gets from a half to a fourth as much, down to Guam, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands which each receive $10,000, for fish; and $10,000 for game.

The states put up a matching fund of about 25 percent. In California, this is derived from the sale of fishing and hunting licenses, Senator Fred Farr assures us.

Plaza Businessmen Form Association, Name Hulsey Pres.

The newly formed Carmel Plaza Business Men's Association, with 100% membership of the businesses located in the Carmel Plaza, has elected Charles Hulsey as its president. The other officers are Don Crosby, vice president; June Turner, secretary; August Johnson (Bank of America), treasurer.

After active weekly meetings during November, they decided to invest in Christmas decorations for the Plaza. According to the plan, decorations are to go up tomorrow. The accepted schedule calls for the businesses in the Carmel Plaza to remain open on Friday nights (December 2 and 9) until 9:00 o'clock and then to remain open every night from December 16 through 24.

Another tentative project is to have a Santa Claus on duty.

subdivision conform to county standards for width, curbs and gutters. Standard road widths specified are 31 feet curb to curb on a 50 foot flat base, right of way totalling 60 feet. (Most existing Highlands roads average 15 feet in width.)

The new subdivision plan also specifies several panhandle lots with frontage ranging from 25 to 30 feet at the road.

Both officials of the Highlands Association, whose executive board attended Tuesday's meeting, and representatives of the Bestor firm have indicated a desire to reach agreement on possible modification of certain aspects of the plan, in particular the road widths, which Highlands residents feel would seriously deface the wooded hills.

"The subdivision map has been approved subject to confirmation on December 13," a member of Bestor's staff pointed out yesterday. "In the meantime, we hope to consult with the Highlands people and find some way of meeting both their and our objectives."

The plan submitted this week is the third to be tried by Allamprese. His original subdivision, planned by a Fresno firm, was similar to the current one in its literal adherence to the one acre zoning requirement. The plan was considered both "impractical" and not in harmony with the character of the Highlands by a study group of the Planning Commission, and was withdrawn in favor of the "greenbelt concept" subdivision proposed by Bestor.

Youth Center Has High Stepping Plans For Xmas Capers

on the program is the Wharf Theatre's John Scheckler in a series of impersonations, honky-tonk pianist Toby Tobiason, and the perennially hilarious Snowflakers, a chorus line of Carmel High football players. The show will have its traditional finale by the glee club directed by John Farr.

Carmel High senior Jeanie Pistulka is assistant director for this year's Xmas Capers. Continuity is being composed by Buzz Rainer, poet-laureate of the Carmel High faculty, in the form of a series of verses to be read by Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus.

Area Planners OK Site Size Swap For County Greenbelt

cisions at this time.

Evans told him that some tentative policy about at least the 300 acres under consideration is necessary. The county commission cannot hold up the subdivision plans if the owner presents them. Also, owner initiative master planning for large acreage should be encouraged; otherwise, the property owners will sell off smaller areas for subdivisions as they are approached by buyers. There is less chance for saving greenbelt by this piecemeal method.

Consultant Hall introduced two representatives of Larry Smith & Co., Consultants, Russ Gibbin and Al Winters, who are to make the economic and base population survey, which is "not primarily statistics collecting" Gibbin said. They will determine the "opportunities for institutional, commercial and tourist facilities each community has to offer."

Admiral C. W. Fisher, Carmel representative on the "core" committee, the citizens' advisory group to the Peninsula commission, said: "When he presents his report of the horrible picture, it means that there is in the lap of the area planning commission a very important decision: how much we must sacrifice of our ethical, artistic, cultural as well as scenic activities and elements to commercial and population pressures."

This got a "rise" out of Consultant Hall and several commissioners. Hall drew a picture of two eggs on the blackboard, a commercial egg and a cultural and scenic egg, with a lot of space between. Then he superimposed an end of the cultural egg on the end of the commercial egg and said, "Out of this area will grow the plan."

Fisher observed dryly that he'd rather see a greater area of cultural egg and less of the commercial in the final amalgam.

TWO BURGLARIES ON THANKSGIVING WEEKEND

Two burglaries marred an otherwise tranquil Thanksgiving holiday here.

The Hob Nob restaurant was relieved of $140 stashed in a bag in a refrigerator by a burglar who apparently entered the building sometime Thanksgiving. The theft was discovered by a cook at the restaurant when he arrived for work Friday morning and found an outside door unlocked, as well as the door to the refrigerator.

Saturday morning, an out of town visitor, Elroy Vallina, reported to police that two $100 bills which he left on a bedside table Friday night before retiring in a room he shared with a friend at Hofsas House were gone when he awoke that morning. Police are still investigating.
